Acknowledgments

More people have contributed to this book than it is possible to list here. I am indebted to many friends, readers, and critics—I hope each of them knows how grateful I am. A particular thanks goes to SBL Press for their meticulous work editing this manuscript.

The bulk of the work on this project was undertaken in Cambridge, UK. The daily stimulation, inspiration, and caffeine I received from friends and colleagues there proved invaluable. Most of all, I am grateful to Katharine Dell, who helped to guide this project from its beginnings and without whom it would never have reached completion. Thanks also to James Aitken and Christopher Ansberry for thoroughly reading and incisively critiquing my work and for encouraging me to think more fully about areas I had missed. I also thank Pete Williams and Kim Phillips for years of consistent support and advice, as well as many others at the Divinity Faculty and Tyndale House. I must also mention my friends at Lyn's House—Debbie, Mel, Ian, Julie, Philip, David, James, Janette, Dan, Judith, Annie, Janice, Katharine, Sarah, and others. With them, I saw more wisdom than in any library.

My thanks must also go to colleagues at Leeds University and, most recently, at Edinburgh University. I am very grateful for the fantastic biblical studies team—Anja Klein, Helen Bond, Philippa Townsend, Paul Foster, Matt Novenson, Timothy Lim, and Alison Jack—and for the continual generosity and support of Linden Bicket and Jolyon Mitchell.

My largest thanks are owed to my family: to my three brilliant sisters—Abi, Becky, and Steph—for putting up with me; to Jill Jackson (though not a blood relative)—a true woman of valor and a fountain of gentle wisdom throughout my life; and most particularly to my mum and dad. I cannot express how thankful I am for their thoughtful advice, abundant generosity, and unwavering love. My dad passed away unexpectedly when this manuscript was in its final stages. It is dedicated to him.
